

Study Abroad – Summer 2016

PSYC 306: History & Systems of Psychology

An exciting trip that explores significant British and German universities and sites that have influenced the development of modern psychology.

This course will present the philosophical and physiological antecedents of psychological science. The pertinence of scientific inquiry to psychology will be given special emphasis. The history and distinguishing characteristics of the major systems in psychology and the varieties of contemporary psychological theory will be discussed in terms of the individuals and events that have been instrumental in developing them. Newer aspects of these theories will be presented in light of their historical development.

Trip Dates: June 21, 2016 thru July 10, 2016

Cost: $4200

Included: airfare, all transportation on trip, site visits related to course, lodging, breakfast, and four group meals.

Cities: Edinburg, London, Berlin, Wurzburg, Leipzig and Rothenberg

Information Session:

Thursday, August 27 at 6 PM Jefferson Room DSU

Instructors: Dr. Dorothy Doolittle & Dr. Shelia Greenlee