

Study Abroad in Morocco

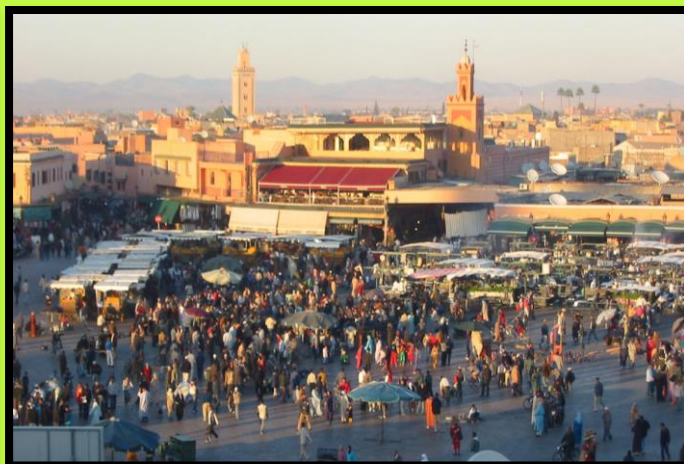

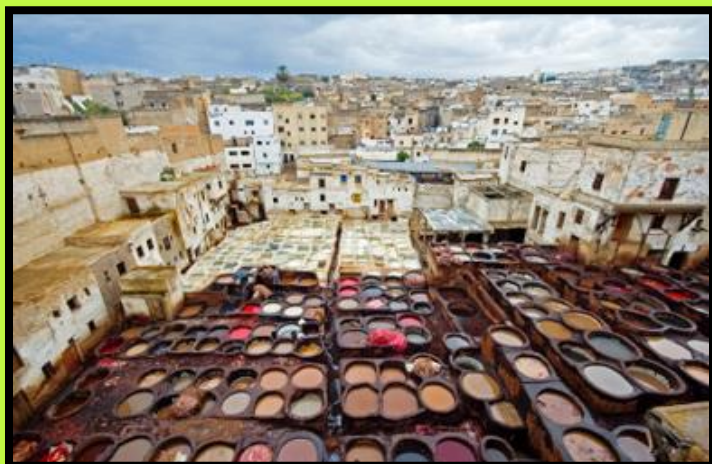

MLAN 370 / RSTD 370

Modern Languages and Religious Studies

No Pre-Requisite Required

May be applied to the new minor in Middle East and North Africa Studies

Morocco is a country of many contrasts, where centuries-old traditions and modern technologies are at the heart of dynamic and hospitable culture. Morocco is an absolute goldmine with endless treasures to excavate. It has a rich history, during which the lives of Berbers and Arabs, Muslims and Jews, rural communities and city dwellers, have been intricately interwoven to produce a fascinating, social, cultural, linguistic, and religious mosaic. These various communities have found ways to live together for a millennia, in spite of occasional challenges and changes with which they were faced. Morocco's importance is further heightened in lights of events in the MENA region over the past couple of years.

Program Fee: $4000

This includes: international airfare, ground transportation, hotels, meals, tours & entry fees

This does not include: Tuition for 3 credits or personal expenses

Information Session

Thursday, Sept 11 at 5pm in the DSU Jefferson Room

Itinerary Includes: Casablanca, Ouarzazate (the door of the desert), Marrakesh, Fes, Tangier, Chefchaouen (the blue pearl), and Rabat. This program is co-sponsored and organized with ARAMFO, the Arab American Foundation for Multicultural Education and Students Understanding.

Faculty Leaders:

Prof. Diana Obeid Instructor of Arabic: Diana.obeid@cnu.edu

Prof. Hussam Timani Associate Professor of Religion: hussam.timani@cnu.edu

Both Professors are co-directors of the new Minor in Middle East and North Africa Studies.

